

HR Policy

Purpose and Scope

This HR Policy document outlines the standard employment guidelines applicable to all employees of the organization, including full-time staff, interns, and contractors, unless a specific clause states otherwise. The policy is intended to promote a fair, safe, and productive workplace.

Working Hours and Attendance

Standard working hours are Monday through Friday, and employees are expected to log attendance through the company's designated system each working day. Flexible working arrangements, including remote work, may be approved by a reporting manager on a case-by-case basis, subject to team and project requirements.

Leave Policy

- Casual Leave: short-notice leave for personal matters, subject to an annual limit.
- Sick Leave: leave for illness, which may require supporting documentation beyond a set threshold.
- Earned or Annual Leave: accrued leave that can be planned in advance with manager approval.
- Maternity and Paternity Leave: leave provided in accordance with applicable labor laws.

Employees are expected to apply for planned leave in advance through the HR portal, while unplanned leave such as sick leave should be reported to the reporting manager as early as possible.

Code of Conduct

Employees are expected to act with integrity, treat colleagues with respect, and avoid conflicts of interest. Harassment, discrimination, and any form of workplace misconduct are strictly prohibited and may be reported confidentially through the designated HR or ethics channel.

Performance Reviews

Performance is typically reviewed on a periodic cycle, combining self-assessment, manager feedback, and, where applicable, peer feedback. Review outcomes may inform compensation revisions, promotions, or individual development plans agreed upon with the reporting manager.

Confidentiality and Data Protection

Employees who have access to confidential company information, client data, or personal data of colleagues are required to handle it in accordance with the company's data protection guidelines and must not disclose such information outside the organization without authorization.

Termination and Resignation

Employees wishing to resign are expected to provide written notice as specified in their employment contract, typically ranging from a few weeks to a couple of months depending on role and seniority. The company reserves the right to terminate employment for cause, subject to applicable law and internal disciplinary procedures.

Grievance Redressal

Any employee with a workplace grievance is encouraged to raise it with their reporting manager in the first instance, and may escalate to HR if the matter is not resolved satisfactorily. All grievances are handled with confidentiality to the extent possible.
